

BIRDING

Lewis County, NY

Adirondacks
TUG HILL
REGION

*Our backyard.
Your adventure.*

AdirondacksTughill.com

I ♥ NY

The Adirondack Park is one of the greatest places for bird-watching or birding as it is called. If you combine Yellowstone, Everglades, Glacier, and Grand Canyon national parks, the Adirondack Park would still be bigger. The Adirondack Park is the largest publicly protected park in the contiguous United States.

With all its natural beauty, The Adirondack region is a fantastic place to travel and to walk through the woods listening and looking for the next species on your life-list.

Migratory birds are back in the area by June, while some species can be seen all year long. A good set of binoculars helps you observe without startling your quarry.

If there is a birdwatcher in you or in your family, bring them to Lewis County for a great bird-watching opportunity. Of the more than 200 bird species that take refuge here, you are likely to see spruce grouse, ruby-crowned kinglet, Lincoln's sparrow, palm and blackpoll warblers, yellow-bellied and oliver-sided flycatchers, and Bicknell's thrush.

Bringing a Camera is a Good Idea you never know when that perfect picture-moment will arise!

Tug Hill & Whetstone Gulf

"West of Lowville & NYS Route's 12, 26 and south of NYS Route 177"

Birding in this neck of the woods will give you the chance to see Ruffed Grouse, American Woodcock, and a variety of Warblers.

Black River

"Lyons Falls to Carthage"

Enjoy birding over 44 miles of flatwater paddling along the Black River. You will come across the likes of Tree Swallows & Belted Kingfisher along this peaceful stretch of earth.

Equipment

Binoculars, a Field Guide, a Checklist, and a Camera (optional).

State Forest

Wildlife Management Area

State Parks

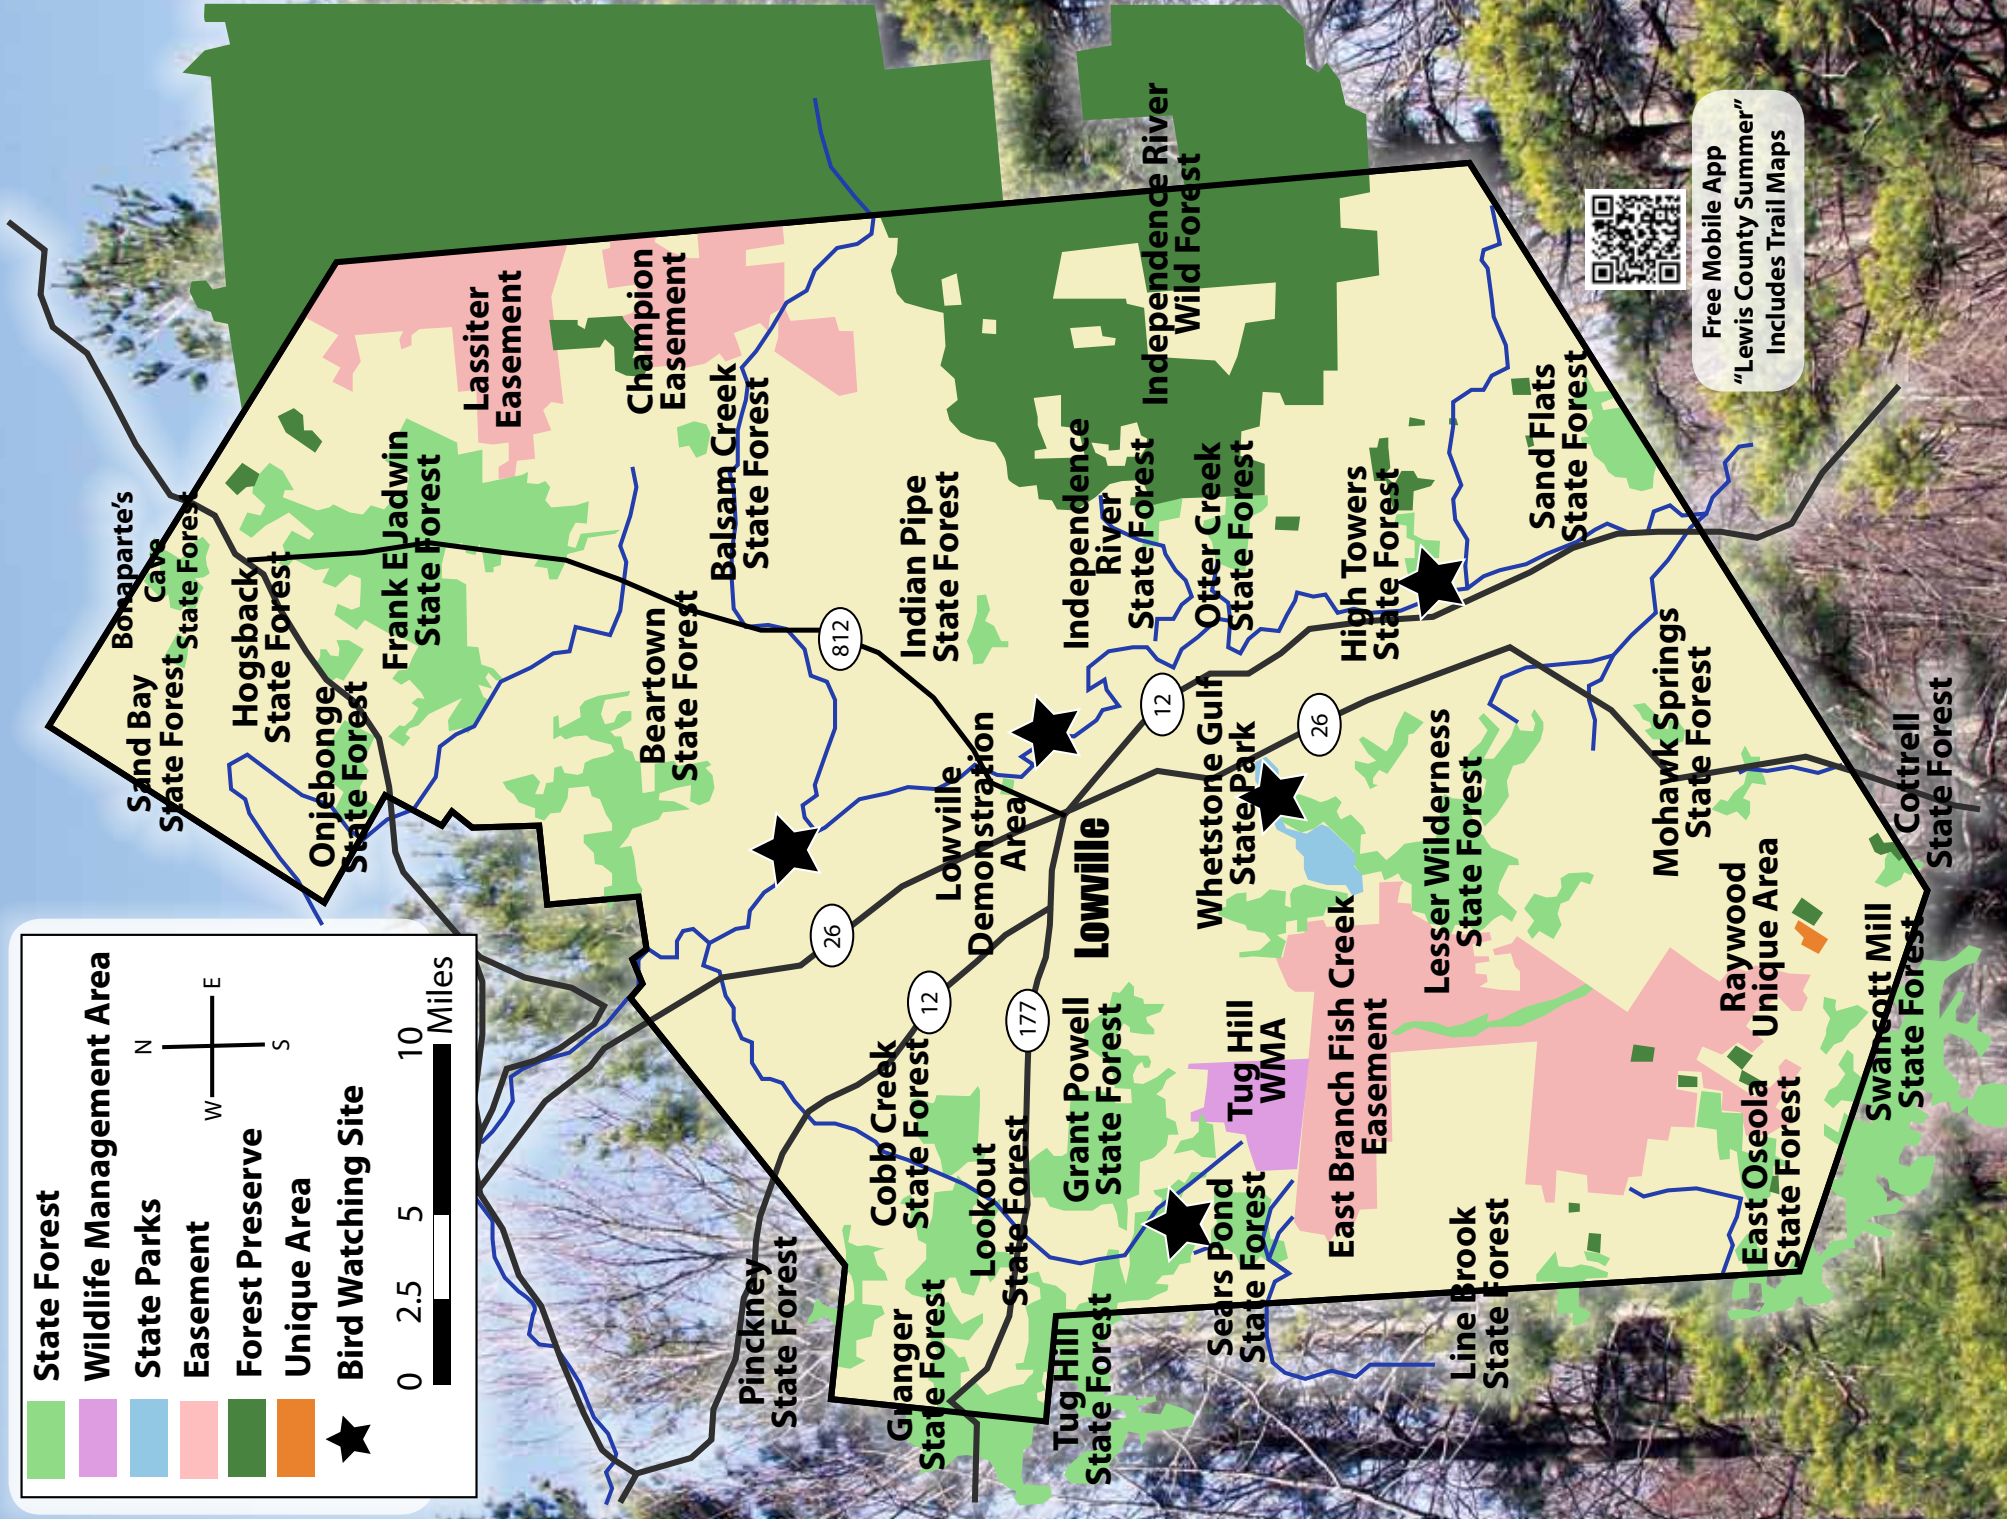

Easement

Forest Preserve

Unique Area

★ Bird Watching Site

0 2.5 5 10 Miles

Free Mobile App
 "Lewis County Summer"
 Includes Trail Maps